Summer Sessions!

Hope you have all treated yourselves to a wonderful break between Spring and Summer Session. The hours have changed but the Learning Commons is here to support your learning needs. There are reference materials, books you may check out, and tutors available to you this summer.

Don’t forget we are on Instagram and you can also follow us @bpcclearningresources or on Facebook to get updates on your Learning Commons.

Who’s Who?

Welcome, Reagan Stearns! Miss. Stearns is our new Part-Time Librarian. She can be found helping students and working at the Information desk of the Library. Be sure to stop by and give Reagan and warm Cavalier welcome!

Tutor Talk!

Yay! The Tutoring Center is available to you. Need some help with those writing assignments or with that math lesson? Stop by the Tutoring Center. There are tutors available to help.

Collecting facts is important. Knowledge is important. But if you don't have an imagination to use the knowledge, civilization is nowhere.

Featured Resource

You can learn more about your career choice using the O*NET database. O*NET provides current information on the knowledge, skills, and abilities for occupations as they are changing.

You can find this and other helpful databases in the A-Z Databases of the BPCC Learning Commons. You never have to make a career choice without gathering helpful information!

Shhh! Don’t Tell..

There is a great space in the BPCC Library with print periodicals and journals. Just go to the second floor of the Library near the study rooms. You can sit in the comfy chairs and peruse the magazine of your choice.

Behind the Scenes

The librarians are hard at work replacing outdated materials. You don’t have to worry, we are taking those old items and donating them to a local charity. This gives us the opportunity to provide you with current information to put into your next essay.

Remember, if you have any questions, feel free to ask a librarian for help.
