Welcome to a new semester!

Mid-Term is quickly approaching. You may have begun working on your research papers. Keep in mind the Learning Commons is here to support you in successfully meeting your midterm and research needs. Research assistance and tutoring are available.

We are on Instagram and Facebook. You can follow us @bpcclearningresources or on Facebook to get updates on what’s happening in the Learning Commons.

Who’s Who?

Be sure to stop by the Learning Commons to meet Stephanie Cox. Mrs. Cox is the Library Coordinator. You can find Mrs. Cox at the information desk ready to assist. Please feel free to ask her for help or direction.

Tutor Talk!

The Tutoring Center, located on the 2nd Floor of the Learning Commons, is the place to find books your instructor has placed on reserve for your classes. These items may be checked out for use in the Tutoring Center for 2 hours. You may read, study, or scan pages from these books.
We are happy to announce, among other new reference materials, we have a new APA Dictionary of Psychology. Diagnosis and treatments are changing so rapidly the Learning Commons is striving to provide up-to-date relevant information.

You are always welcome to browse the reference materials. You can also search the library’s catalog to find these materials on the shelves.

The librarians are hard at work. We are constantly adding new materials to the Library.

There are tons of new e-books as well as physical books being acquired to support you on this successful educational journey at BPCC.

Go! Cavaliers!